THE EIGHT 8 PRINCIPLES

BECOMING AN EIGHT PRINCIPLES FACILITATOR

First Things

As an Eight Principles Facilitator you'll be employing the most advanced fundraising curriculum as a continuous learning platform in your nonprofit organization or as a consultant or coach in serving your clients more effectively.

The Eight Principles live curriculum uses the most effective pedagogies in working with adult learners. Interactive, participatory and accountability focused.

Approval and Training

Becoming a licensed facilitator is simplicity itself. A single, renewable license fee of one or three-year term provides everything you need. Training, access to all instruction media and participant materials for the live curriculum.

Once you've made the decision to get on board, you'll need to decide on your license term and schedule your facilitator training. Payment of the registration fee holds your place with final enrollment confirmed at the time of receipt of the license fee by Eight Principles. Registration fees are applied to license fee.

Upon completion of the live training, you receive your facilitator certification.

Before You Come

Being prepared for the training is essential. Once your fee is paid, you'll receive an individual log-on to The Eight Principles Online Curriculum. The first nine lessons or modules cover The Eight Principles.

Completing the first nine modules including the quiz for each course is the expected pre-work. During the live sessions we focus on working with adults and getting acceptance and buy-in within your organization. For coaches, we talk about ways to use the curriculum effectively in your business. Submit a completed quiz for each course and you're done. Please note: The pre-work is NOT optional. Failure to complete the pre-work in advance of the training will disqualify you from attending. A refund of the training fee will NOT be made in such a case.

Being Here

Training sessions are held in Boise, Idaho.

All sessions are held at the Arid Club, 1137 River Street, Boise, ID 83702. The Arid Club is a private club with excellent meeting facilities. Dress is business casual.

All costs are covered in your training fee except for lodging and transportation to and from Boise. All meals, training materials and sessions are included.
